Format

Small group work

Summary

Now that we have nearly completed our training, it is time to reflect on the performance of our home offices in regard to environmental compliance. This session provides you an opportunity with your colleagues to examine the needs and challenges faced by you as an Activity Manger, A/COR, or specialist (or whatever role you fill) in your duties for ensuring environmental compliance in your projects as well as across the Mission. However, don't forget that it is not just "complying" with the regulations, but it is about improving the quality and performance of our programming by considering the environment throughout the entire program life cycle.

Items to consider:

- What are the key issues you would communicate to you Mission or team after taking this training?
- What are you as an individual going to do?
